

Artificial Intelligence

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is the field of computer science concerned with creating systems that can perform tasks that normally require human intelligence. These tasks include reasoning, learning, problem solving, decision making, speech recognition, and visual perception.